Original Ideas Advanced by an Intelligent Savage of Tender Years.
There is nothing more original than the early composition of an Indian boy. The following example is still preserved as an instance in which its savage author epitomized in unconscious parable and with excellent humor the relations of the red man and his white brother, says the New York Mail and Express. It is entitled: "Story of Good Bird and Bad Cat." The essay follows:

"One day, bright day, a little bird happy and stood on a log and sang all day long. That bird doesn't know anything about cat. She thinks nobody is near to her. But behind the near log old sly cat is watching. She want to eat for supper, and she thinks about stealing all the time. The old cat came very slowly, and by and by she go after the little bird, but she does not see him and sang loud again. She sang loud like this: 'I am always try to do what is right; when I ever die I go to Heaven.' That bird said these all words, and I shall not forget the little bird what it said, and these all words it said and after two or three minutes go died; the cat jumped and catch and kill, eat all up except little things from bird, wings, legs or skin, and that bird is glad die because she is very good bird. The little bird has last time sang and very happy was the little bird after that. I think the old cat have good dinner and happy just the same as the bird was at first time."

CHAIN OF HUMAN BONES.

Made in Libby Prison by a Member of a New York Regiment.

Cyrus O. Thornton, a farmer living a few miles out of Bolton, Mass., has an odd watch chain. It is made of human bones. The chain consists of eight links, each a trifle more than an inch long, connected with plated rings. The chain is about ten inches long and has been highly polished by years of wear and gleams like ivory, says the Fall River News.

Thornton secured the chain at Petersburg, Va., in 1864. He was a member of company E, Fifth New York Engineers. A member of the Twenty-first New York Infantry made two chains while confined in Libby prison, and on his release met Thornton and sold him one chain for $50 in greenbacks. Thornton has forgotten the maker's name. The bones were taken from amputated arms and legs, and it required 18 months' time to carve out the chains. For many years after he came home from the war Thornton wore the chain every day, but for several years he has worn it only on Memorial day and at grand army reunions. Some of his neighbors laughed at the idea of the bones being taken from human bodies, and he sent the chain to a surgeon, who examined it and pronounced it to be of human bones.

Prince Uchtomski Is the Friend and Assistant of Nicholas.

Prince Uchtomski, who lately left St. Petersburg for Peking with eight tons of presents from the czar and czarina for the emperor and empress of China, is perhaps the most intimate friend and associate that Nicholas has, among his subjects. He accompanied the czar on his memorable trip to China and Japan, and was able thoroughly to ingratiate himself with the youth who was destined so short a time after to become his sovereign. Uchtomski was at the time an official of the ministry of the interior, but was not liked either by his immediate chiefs or by the minister himself, M. Dournovo, and consequently had seen many of his juniors promoted over his head. No sooner had Nicholas succeeded to the throne than the minister, anxious to curry favor with the new czar, submitted to him a memorandum proposing Prince Uchtomski for promotion and for the appointment as chief of a new department. The czar read the memoir, and then, with a sarcastic smile, remarked: "Oh, you are suddenly appreciating Uchtomski's merits."

M. Dournovo became perplexed and terribly embarrassed, whereupon the czar commanded him to leave it on his desk. Uchtomski received the appointment in question, but held it only for a few days, resigning it in order to assume the presidency of the newly organized Russo-Chinese bank at St. Petersburg, to which he had been nominated by the czar, and which is entrusted with the management of the extensive financial relations between the two governments. The czar likewise authorized him to become the editor in chief of the now important daily newspaper, the Viedomosti, which derives its importance from the conviction that it reflects the personal views of the czar, and which distinguishes itself for its championship of Russia's interests in the orient.

The prince holds the appointment of chamberlain and master of ceremonies to the czar, so that he is able to obtain access to his imperial friend and patron at all times. It may be added that one of his brothers is naval attaché to the Muscovite embassy in London, while another, Alexander, by name, created a tremendous sensation about a year ago by suddenly turning his back upon his club and associates, and entering the monastery of Kazan as a monk. No one knows exactly the reason for his astonishing act, but it is believed that there is a woman in the case.—Detroit Free Press.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE? Happy and Fruitful Marriage.

Every MAN who would know the GRAND TRUTHS, the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science applied to Married Life, who would alone for past failures and avoid future pitfalls, should write for our wonderful little book, called "Complete Marriage and How to Attain It." Every earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

When love knocks at a woman's heart he usually comes in disguise. Doesn't want it known what he's up to. If she knew all about the little rascal, would she let him in? That's a question. Women are apt to look upon love and marriage as purely a matter of sentiment and affection. That is pretty nearly right; yet there is a practical side to it too, and the best way to preserve the ideal aspect of marriage and maternity is not to forget the practical part of it. A woman cannot be a thoroughly happy wife and mother unless she has a healthy and vigorous organism of her sex in a healthy and vigorous condition. The best friend that a woman ever had is the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician of the "Invalids' Hotel" and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Favorite Prescription" is a perfect and infallible remedy for every form of female weakness, nervousness, and general debility, trying everything I could do to help me—all to no avail. I then heard of Dr. Pierce's medicine, and although I was thoroughly discouraged, I thought I would try once more to find relief. I took your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," and to my great surprise cannot be given for the rapid relief they gave me. I am now free from the former troubles. Very sincerely yours

(Mrs.) Mary J. Stewart.

SURE OF A FINE FUNERAL.

Men of Lubec, Me., Provide for Mortuary Emergencies.

The town of Lubec, Me., is one of the go-ahead villages of the Pine Tree state, and the one thing wanting to enable it to keep up with the procession is a hearse. The citizens investigated the condition of surrounding towns, and learned that every one of them had a hearse, and they considered it a burning and municipal shame that Lubec should be so far behind the times. Therefore, it was resolved to have one, although, according to the rates of longevity in Lubec, it was not considered likely there would be much use for it, says the Lewiston Journal.

A mass meeting of the citizens was called to discuss the grave subject. The enthusiasm was unbounded, and it was at once decided to purchase the vehicle by voluntary subscriptions, making a sort of joint stock concern or hearse corporation. Each subscriber chipped in one dollar, but the wary and thrifty Lubecker insisted upon a proviso whereby he is enabled to get a show for his white ally. It was unanimously agreed that if any stockholder had use for the hearse within a certain number of years from the date of his subscription, he, the said subscriber, should be entitled to a rebate of the sum paid in.

Now the Lubecker awaits the approach of the grim destroyer without emotion. In the event of his death, he is assured of a first-class funeral, with plumes and all the outward trappings of woe, and he gets his money back besides.

FINAL "A" BAD FOR SHIPS.

Some Recent Wrecks Were Guilty of That Lack of Foresight.

Insurance underwriters look askance at vessels which have a final "A" in their names. The first letter of the alphabet is considered a hoodoo when it ends the name of a deep sea ship. Many of the most serious wrecks of the last year have been of vessels carrying the hoodoo letter.

One day lately, says the San Francisco Examiner, the telegraph announced that the British ship Andros, from that port for Liverpool with one of the most valuable cargoes that was ever carried out of that harbor, was lost within a few leagues of her destination. The next day word was received that the Orealla, bound from Victoria for Liverpool, had been swept by heavy seas and badly damaged. Her mate and one sailor were drowned. The wires told on the same day of the total loss of the British ship Villanta and the drowning of her master near Freemantle, and a few days later the papers gave the news of the loss of the steamer Wallapa and of the beaching of the Dora in Alaska waters.

During the last two or three years the most serious wrecks on the coast were of vessels whose names ended with the hoodoo letter. The wreck of the Colima was the most horrifying of all. Then came the loss of the steamer Combs, and a few weeks later the passenger steamer Umatilla ran ashore and narrowly escaped destruction.

Difficult Undertaking.

The company which undertook to lay a cable in the Amazon river is having a hard time. Engineers now assert that such a cable cannot be made a success on account of the current and many obstructions in the river bed.—Albany Journal.

THE COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

The Philadelphia American, a paper which is edited by Wharton Barker, a banker who believes in free coinage and a tariff that will benefit the workman, not the trusts, says of the coal miners' strike:

"Yet, we repeat, if ever men had cause to strike, the coal miners of today have that cause. By cuts in the rate of pay and by enforced idleness, their wages have been so reduced as to bring them to extreme poverty. We lately had a report, made by an investigating committee of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, to the effect that the average earnings of the miners of Pennsylvania were in the neighborhood of but $4 a week. In the coal fields of Illinois, the average weekly earnings of a miner are given at but $2, out of which they are expected to pay rent and support their homes. That they must go hungry is plain. So they have been driven to desperation. Might as well starve striking for living wages as starve at grinding toil, is their feeling, and so their resort to a strike into which they have been spurred by the magnified reports of industrial revivals and minimized reports of industrial shut-downs catered up by the metropolitan press reports, that have given rise to false hopes.

"We have spoken of the average wage of the Pennsylvania miner as but $4 a week. But this is a greater wage than the average miner in reality receives. Added to his loss of income through wage cuts and enforced idleness, is the loss in the purchasing power of his scanty wage through the despicable practice of paying him his wage, not in money, but in orders on the company stores. And at these stores exorbitant prices, exorbitant as compared to prices ruling in other stores, are charged for supplies. And these exorbitant prices, the miner, paid in store orders, must pay, for his store orders commonly pieces of metal calling for so many cents' worth of goods at the company stores, and absolutely worthless at all other stores. So we have, through this practice of payment in store orders, a virtual cut in the wages of miners below that nominally paid, and because of this practice all the more reason has the miner to strike for an increase of wages.

"In the circular calling out the miners on strike, the National Executive Board of the United Mine Workers makes this significant assertion: 'The signs of the time, as pointed out by the press and by the testimony of men versed in public affairs, are that business is reviving, that an upward tendency in prices of all commodities is apparent. In the general business revival and industrial improvement which is earnestly proclaimed we ought to share, and if we do not attempt to share we shall be false to ourselves and those dependent upon us.'

"And who, other than the heartless task-master, will gainsay this? Surely if there has been a revival in industry the wage-earner should share in it. The promised revival, the promised prosperity is surely not alone for the employer; it has been promised to the wage-earner no less than the employer. And so, now that we are told the promised prosperity is at hand, the coal miners insist on sharing it. And if the promised prosperity is not at hand, if it has not come, he is not to be harshly judged for demanding to share in that which is a myth, yet which he has been told is a fact. Especially is it unjust for the metropolitan papers that have insisted on the presence of prosperity to so judge him. Yet they do judge him and condemn him, condemn him for demanding a share in that which does not exist, yet which they have told him does exist, condemn him for following their false teachings."

TO COMPLETE THE PANAMA CANAL.

An understanding has been reached between France and Great Britain looking to the completion and control of the Panama Canal. Germany was invited to participate, but owing to Greco-Turkish complications her assent has been delayed, though it will undoubtedly come in time. Now an effort is being made to learn if the United States will come in and form a quadruple alliance for the completion and neutralization of the canal.

Should such an alliance be effected it would be the most powerful for peace the world has ever seen. Fourteen hundred and seventy-seven naval vessels, mounting 15,333 guns, and manned by 178,635 seamen, would stand for the protection of the canal under the flag of the four great powers named. They would represent a gross merchant marine tonnage of 18,388,956, nearly three-quarters of the world's shipping against 6,718,676 for all the rest of the world.

The Railway Age reports that only 622 miles of track have been laid in the United States during the first half of 1897. This is less than the corresponding period of any year since 1875, with the exception of 1894, when only 525 miles of track had been laid up to July 1st. In twenty-six of the States and territories no track has been laid this year.

The Republican Club League closed its session at Detroit yesterday. New officers were elected and Omaha selected as the next place to hold the convention of the National League.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Edward Frey of Stockton, a lad of 17 years, is dying from lockjaw as a result of injuries received from falling down a well a week ago. He fell 65 feet and remained in the water for three hours.

Colonel Chas. F. Crocker's condition was less hopeful yesterday, a change having occurred in the afternoon for the worse. His physician had hopes until the change came that they could pull him through.

John Scott Oliver, the California deputy sheriff who was indicted last week in New York for abduction, attempted suicide in the Toombs prison yesterday. This is his second attempt at suicide since his arrest.

Emma Symonds, wife of an engine fitter at London, England, cut the throats of her four young children Wednesday night and then her own. As Symonds returned home at 1 o'clock he stumbled over the bodies of his wife and children. Whisky was the cause of the deed.

The Senate tabled Stewart's motion to reconsider its action directing the Secretary of War to execute the San Pedro, Cal., harbor project and passed Thurston's resolution providing for the participation of the United States in the Paris Exposition.

Stewart and White had a hot controversy over the San Pedro matter, White intimating that Stewart represented the Southern Pacific Company and the latter resented it.

Tillman's bill to make distilled spirits transported from one State to another subject to the State laws the same as liquor distilled within the State, was passed.

A joint proposal of bimetalism was presented at London yesterday on behalf of the United States and France at a conference held at the Foreign office. Representatives of the United States, France and England were present, and after some discussion the proposals were taken under advisement and the British Cabinet will give its answer at a subsequent conference. It is reported that an international conference will be summoned, probably to meet in the United States, with Great Britain participating. Delegates will be uninterested as regards the ratio, although it is well known that the United States favors 16 and France 15 1/2 to 1.

The London newspapers are enraged over the sharp reply of Secretary Sherman to Lord Salisbury on the seal controversy. The papers say that the lion's tail is twisted again, and the American eagle shrieks at England. Others call the reply "yankee insolence." The Globe editorially says: "Englishmen will be glad to see that Lord Salisbury has, so far as a patrol of the seal fisheries is concerned, treated the message as though it had never been sent. If he were to go a step further and to direct Sir Julian Pauncefote to intimate to Mr. McKinley that Her Majesty's Government declines to receive dispatches couched in such language and could only reply to the next by 'telling' Colonel Hay his passport application would be endorsed by the complete approval of the nation."

The Trans-Mississippi Congress was called to order at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. An immense crowd was in attendance, due to the fact that Wm. J. Bryan, President of the Congress, was expected to be present and preside.

A number of resolutions were offered and referred. Wm J. Bryan entered the hall and was greeted with wild enthusiasm. Mr. Bryan took the chair and a delegate proposed three cheers for Bryan and as chairman he promptly ruled the motion out of order. Mr. Bryan then expressed his regrets at being detained from the Congress, but that he was fully in accord with the movements of the Congress. He referred to the work of this Congress covering the mining interest, also irrigation. He concluded by saying: "We will rear a people in the great West that will stand for American liberty and American progress."

CHINESE OBSTACLES.

Evil Spirits Which Must Be Driven Out.

If a house is to be repaired wonderful forethought is necessary. The evil spirits which are supposed to occupy each dwelling that mortals have inhabited cause the carpenter no end of trouble and no trifling expense, says Lippincott's. First, an astrologer must be consulted with regard to the most lucky day for beginning the work; then a square suspended from the ridge beam is a notification to the spirits of darkness that their dwelling-place is to be disturbed, wherefore the square hung for them to do is to move out quietly and peacefully. Next the carpenters make offerings to these unseen residents. These gifts seem to say: "If you please, spirits of darkness, accept this bribe and speedily take your flight."

Next the neighbors must be warned that these evil influences are about to be turned loose, perhaps to seek shelter under a neighboring roof. Every house on that street receives a notice that upon a certain day and hour repairs are to begin on the dwelling of Ah Sin. Each household can then pay the impost to enter their doorway, but to go to the next neighbor.

Even the farmer cannot begin his work in the spring until after the national festivals are celebrated in honor of the special gods who are supposed to make it their particular business to look after the welfare of those who till the soil. In a land where more than 100,000,000 people are supported by agriculture, where many farms have been in cultivation for three or even four milleniums, we naturally expect to find skill in that line of work. In this we are not disappointed, for Chinese farming is scientific handwork.

One Way to Cure Green Reporters.
The Albany Journal tells a story of two green reporters, Englishmen, who were sent by the city editor of a certain newspaper to a suburban town to write up the burning of an orphan asylum. Late that night when the news editor was wondering why no "copy" about the fire was coming by wire a telegraph messenger rushed in and handed him a dispatch. He opened it and read:

"Dear sir—We are here. What shall we do?"
It was signed with the names of the two men sent to "write up" the fire. The news editor made a few remarks, which, while they were appropriate to the occasion, would not look well in print; then he wrote on a telegraph blank this brief message:

"Find out where the fire is hottest, and jump in."
A Russian Joke.
One reads in a Russian periodical which has a corner devoted to the "comic," this pleasant story: "What, Vasya, drunk again? I thought you only drank on the great holidays?" "To-day is a great holiday; my mother-in-law has gone away."

A magnificent cup 22 inches in height, of silver and gold, in the proportions of 16 to 1 will be presented to W. J. Bryan at Salt Lake during the session of the Trans-Mississippi Congress of which he is President. Various mining companies have made donations of silver towards its composition.

The Christian Endeavorers are scattering in all directions from San Francisco, some visiting the interior towns and others going north and south by easy stages to their eastern homes. By the end of the week it is anticipated that the visiting members will have all left San Francisco.

At the Riverside—Alex. Borland, Rye Patch, Nev.; E. Berge, John S. Mitchell, Harry I. Babcock, Geo. O. Patnam, Harry Clark, W. T. Hoffman, all of San Francisco; Mrs. O. H. Smith, and Mrs. E. T. Van Gorder, Elgin, Ill.; Geo. W. Sawyer, Wadsworth; R. B. Gumbert, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Reinhardt, Oakland.

If a man wants to get acquainted with human nature let him edit a newspaper. He knows little of the ups and downs in this life unless he has served in this capacity. He may be a banker, merchant, doctor, lawyer, have sawed wood, been a member of the school board, church janitor, or served as city dad, still he needs a brief experience as the editor of a local paper to complete his knowledge of the many freaks there are in human nature.

The Planet Venus to be Seen at Mid-day.

The planet Venus can now be seen in the west in sky shortly after noon, in spite of the sun's rays. The invasion of San Francisco by the Christian Endeavorers last week and the appearance of this star at mid-day created next to consternation in that sinful city. The natives whispered all sorts of impending evil, principally earthquakes, while the visiting Endeavorers endeavored to look upon the star as a hopeful and propitious sign of their successful convention, yet many of them quaked in their shoes for fear they never would reach their Eastern homes.

Now comes Carson with her prize-fighting arena and other alluring and other sinful adjuncts with a report that crowds of people are on the street gazing at the planet notwithstanding the glare of the sun at 98 Fahrenheit. It would take more than a star shining in the day time, however, to disturb Carson, for if it were possible her citizens would form a stock company and put a fence around the planet and charge admission.

Reno has not observed the phenomenon yet. In fact we have something at present right at home that creates all of the superstitious awe or scientific speculation necessary for one burg. Our seismic disturbances are frequent and quite severe enough to satisfy the most exacting, and we seem especially favored in this particular as our sister towns within a radius of thirty miles do not seem to be on the list for this Mexican or south sea island novelty.

Assaulted by Hobos.

E. F. Berthold, a brakeman on last night's east-bound passenger, section No. 1, had a scrimmage with four tramps at Verdi that came very near being serious for him. At Boca four hobos were found on the train and the trainmen had a lively fight with them and thought they had bounced them, but the gang boarded the train and at Verdi brakeman Berthold made a second attempt to put them off. They showed fight and during the melee Berthold was slashed down the side of the face with a knife. He struck one of them over the head with his lantern knocking him down, and by this time the other tramps came to his aid and they captured one of the gang. The other three skipped out, but were seen later coming this way. The officers are on the lookout, and if they show up here their reception will be more demonstrative than cordial.

At Meadow Lake.

A correspondent from Oardwell to the Truckee Republican regarding the Meadow Lake mines writes encouragingly of the outlook for that district. The town of Oardwell is rapidly assuming the appearance of a boom town. Buildings are springing up like mushrooms after a shower. The hotel is ready for business and the refreshment joints have been established. An assay office will be one of the features of the camp in a few days. A four horse daily stage is now running to Cisco and is well patronized.

Men are being put to work as rapidly as arrangements can be made and it is expected that before snow flies the old Meadow Lake district will be booming.

Renovates at the Lane Hospital.

S. M. Jamison called on Frank Enyart and S. L. Laughton at the Lane Hospital, San Francisco, Wednesday and writes that both men are getting along as well as can be expected. Mr. Enyart's sight is somewhat impaired but his eyes will be saved. Mr. Laughton's injury was so serious that one of his eyes had to be taken out. Dr. Barkan took a piece of steel out of the eye 3/4 of an inch long and as large around as a small darning needle. Both men were glad to receive Reno calls.

On for Pyramid Lake.

Sheriff McInnis, U. S. Marshal Humphreys, Sam Armanko and John Sunderland, Jr., left for Pyramid Lake last night on a fishing trip. They seemed to be confident of success as they had a complete outfit, including a larder well stocked with good things for a dry country. They expect to return Sunday evening.

Believes That Bryan's Arguments are Unanswerable.

H. L. Moody of Truckee attended two meetings where Bryan addressed thousands of people in California and was very much impressed with his mastery over the question of bimetalism as well as Bryan's strong personality. Mr. Moody thinks Bryan's arguments in favor of free silver are unanswerable.

The Christian Endeavor Convention had its romance in San Francisco. Miss Mary B. Davis of Louisville Ky., was married to Geo. O. King, of San Francisco. They were old sweethearts but their union had been discouraged by the bride's parents and the young man came west. They had not met for six years until they met in San Francisco and the old love returned with a happy calmation.

Rev. Hugh Lamont uncle of one of the girls slain by Durrant visited the prisoner at San Quentin on the 10th inst. In an interview he said that he believed from the evidence that Durrant was guilty, but his demeanor was that of an innocent man. They greeted each other and conversed. Durrant insisted that he was innocent and that if his innocence was not proven before his death it certainly would be afterwards.

MRS. D. E. HUNTER,
Fourth Street.

A day or so ago an accident in the power house of the General Electric Company of Tacoma, Wash., destroyed $45,000 worth of property in about one-third as many seconds. The governor became disabled by the breaking of a connecting rod, and the full steam capacity of the plant soon forced the engine up to a tremendous rate of speed. The fly wheel, an immense structure weighing forty tons, unable to stand the strain went to pieces in sections and was distributed promiscuously throughout the building. Although no one was injured the power house was literally torn to pieces.

The tariff conferees were in a more hopeful mood yesterday than at any previous time, and the opinion was expressed that the Republicans would be able to conclude their labors by Friday and the Democratic members by Saturday. It was said that the job was a tedious one, but not hopeless and the report that there would be no agreement was without foundation.

Wanted.

GOLD MAKING IN INDIA.

The Process Used by the Native Alchemists.

Some Strange Substances Enter Into the Formula and a Task of Great Intricacy is Performed.

For a long time in India the apparent transmutation of tin, zinc, copper and mercury into precious metals has been practiced. We have seen there with our own eyes a metal like gold issuing from the crucible of the Indian alchemist—a metal that could not be told from real gold by means of the touchstone. We may say, however, that in old India, as well as in young America, they have not yet succeeded in giving to the metal thus obtained the chemical properties of gold. On this point they are not more advanced in the one country than in the other, and the problem seems to us not to be near solution. The metal obtained can, in fact, be decomposed into its constituent elements. Nevertheless it may be interesting to present to public notice the Indian alchemists and to describe their methods. Around these personages many legends have sprung up. The people assert that they never come into a city except by divine inspiration, in order to cure illness and to enrich certain persons. There is a belief among the Hindus, very widespread, but purely fabulous, that they disappear at certain hours to rejoin the citrars, divine naturalists of the early ages of India, who, according to Hindu tradition, meet with their divinity, Hari Ishari, on the summits of the Himalayas, to learn the secrets of nature.

The following is the method employed by these Indian alchemists to make their gold: We give literally, conforming to the weights and measures in use in India, the list of substances necessary for this delicate operation. These are, according to our documents:

Sulfur of Nelli-Kai (phylanthus lemblia), 24 rupees' weight (7 ounces). White seeds of Abra precatorius, 9 rupees' weight (2 1/2 ounces).

One whole garlic. Cinabar, 6 rupees' weight (2 ounces). English orpiment, 6 rupees' weight. Sal ammoniac, 6 rupees' weight.

These are powdered separately, and then a paste is made of the whole, with three quarts of "paddy" made of the milky juice of asclepias graminea. The whole is ground up with this milk. Then little hard balls are made of the mixture, and finally two satts are taken, of fine, hard earthenware, of such size that the material to be distilled occupies only one-third or one-fourth of the vessel. On the lower vessel another satti is soldered with potter's earth, after an opening has been made in the end of this second vase. Over this hole is fitted a bottle whose end is pierced, and it is carefully sealed to the vase. Into the lower vase are put the little balls described above, and the whole is then sealed up.

The powder, when vaporized, rises along the sides of the bottle and condenses around the hole. It is collected with a feather. Then zinc is taken; for each rupee's weight of zinc is allowed a quantity of the powder as large as two or three rice grains. The zinc and the powder are wrapped up together in a bit of paper or linen or a leaf. The whole is put into a crucible, which is then sealed with a paste composed of one part of cowdung, one of charcoal and one of potter's earth. This is placed in a fire of wood charcoal and heated white hot, after which it is allowed to cool. Open the crucible—you are a rich man!—Paris Cosmos.

INDEPENDENCE DID NOT PAY.

She Made a Great Mistake, for Her Bluff Was Taken Seriously.

"The meanness of some people passes my comprehension," declared the strong-minded girl as she dashed into the club meeting. "If I was as mean and stupid as some people I'd choose a nice shady corner of the country and die there!"

"What's the matter? Won't your father give you money to pay your election bills with, or has Charlie struck in the matter of flowers and theater tickets?"

"They haven't done just either of these things, but they're as mean as dirt, nevertheless. This is the way they've acted:

"You know how I've always wanted a big camera. Well, papa never would get me one, and Charlie has absolutely refused to take my hints on the subject, too. So one night recently I said I was going to save up for one, and I thought that would do the business. But it didn't. Papa merely laughed and said he'd buy me a bank to put my pennies in, and Charlie, the big idiot, begged me to allow him to purchase it—the bank, not the camera. And, of course, I couldn't do a thing but smile and say pretty things; profess I liked to be independent and that sort of chatter. I never do know when to hold my tongue.

"So, last night Charlie brought the bank to me, and what do you think, girls! It was one of those hand-painted china affairs which won't open, and it's quite too pretty to break, so you see what a fix I'm in. And papa and Charlie both put in a five-dollar gold piece, too. And then this morning mamma told me that if I hadn't said so much about wanting to buy the camera myself Charlie was going to buy me a lovely one. Now, what do you all think of that for luck?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Greatest Smokers.

The Hollander, who is usually stocky and plump, and seems to have no nerves, uses an average of 100 ounces of tobacco a year, which is equaled in no other country. The Belgians come next with 80 ounces, and the Turks consume 70. In this country, which is fourth, the average is 60 ounces.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, we used for Castoria. When she became a Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
